THEN AND NOW

BOLD VENTURE WINNER AGAIN IN PREAKNESS

PIMLICO RACETRACK, Md., May 16.—(UP)—Morton L. Schwartz's Bold Venture became the fifth colt in history to score a Preakness-Kentucky Derby double by winning the 46th running classic of the mile and three-sixteenths Maryland classic before a crowd of 45,000 here today.

The body of the second Negro—a woman—was recovered several hours later. It was dragged from the smoldering ruins and left for the curious to stare at and the few remaining souvenir hunters to dismember.

Mountaineers Join Battle

The battle raged under the glancing spot lights of fire trucks.

Mountaineers from the surrounding Blue Ridge foothills with their traditional long barreled "shootin' arms" citizens with pistols and shotguns, state and local police with machine guns and automatic rifles were on one side, and an elderly Negro man and his sister, armed with rifles and shotguns, were on the other.

At least 10,000 rounds of ammunition were fired.

The dead were Sheriff William Young of Orange county and the Negroes—William Waller, 60, and his sister, Cora, 62.

Wounded were Fayette Young,

Young's brother, Gordon Ray Mundy, garage owner of Orange, State Police Sergeant Carr and S. L. McWilliams, and George Messong, of Culpepper. All

RILEY PREDICTS STATE COLLAPSE

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(UP)—State Comptroller Ray L. Riley believes that the present "runaway course of taxes" threatens the state with "disaster and economic collapse."

Addressing the University of Southern California College of Commerce last night, Riley gloomily discussed federal and state taxes, which, he said, promise to bring about an eventual absorption of "big business."

"Bills that will come up next fall to repeal the sales tax would increase the tax rate so greatly that by the end of five years, only income-producing property could be taken from the takeoff to the end of the third jump. The frog covering the most distance in three hops will be adjudged winner."

It was a remarkable demonstration of speed and stamina on the part of the Schwartz star. He trailed the field for three-quarters of a mile and responded with rare courage when Woolf asked him his best.

When the imaginary wire was approached the large crowd stood up and cheered as Bold Venture forged to the front but there was some doubt as to the actual winner until the development of the picture.

LADY HAY TO ARRIVE SUNDAY

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(UP)—Lady Grace Drummond Hay, correspondent who crossed the Atlantic on the dirigible Hindenburg, will arrive by airplane tomorrow afternoon for several days' visit.

As president of the Women's International Aeronautic association, she will visit a shrine maintained by her organization at Riverside on Monday.

LATE FLASHES

McALESTER, Okla., May 16.—(UP)—Claude Fugate, Oklahoma county convict and one of eight desperados who killed a guard kidnapped two others and broke from state prison here Wednesday, was captured near Clayton in northern Pushmataha county today.

30 HURT IN DOCK MELEE
NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—More than 30 persons were injured during a riot in a mele which followed attempts of mounted police to break up a picket line of striking seamen and sympathizers on the Hudson river waterfront as the liner Virginia sailed for California.

Mrs. Roosevelt explained she invited inmates of the school to the capital will be served ice cream, cake and tea from the same china ware that the reformatory inmates—black and white—use daily. Mrs. Roosevelt will be hostess to both groups.

For many of the girls, ranking in age from 16 to 22 years, it was their first trip outside the reformatory in five years. All have been convicted at least three times of crimes. Some are shoplifters; others from ill-famed public houses.

Mrs. Roosevelt explained she invited inmates of the school to the capital will be served ice cream, cake and tea from the same china ware that the reformatory inmates—black and white—use daily. Mrs. Roosevelt will be hostess to both groups.

Conditions which Mrs. Roosevelt said she found at the reformatory included cells with small windows that let in but little sunlight, dark corridors, punishment cells that were "torture chambers," and kitchens in which the girls cook their meals, eat, wash and dry their clothing.

Rats overrun the school. Thirty-eight were killed in one day in the kitchen. They infest the cells, climbing over the girls as they sleep and onto tables to snatch bits of food.

Behind Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg in the move to disarm the armies—chiefly the Heimwehr of Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg—are Joseph Reither, peasant leader, called "the man behind the throne"; Josef Kollman, leader of the left wing of the Schuschnigg-Reither Christian Socialist element, and Leopold Kunschack, fellow leader of the Christian Socialists.

They have demanded, it was learned, that all the armies be disbanded and disarmed.

Your interest in government will be of little value to Society unless you clearly understand whether or not the production of wealth is a service and benefit to the nation and to society. If you understand this, then it is necessary to know the major laws and customs which violate the principles.

In order to stir up some interest and controversy and try to throw light on the subject, The Register is offering $20 in prizes in two groups: one group for students in public schools or colleges, residing in Oregon county and the other group for any individual residing in Oregon county, not in public school.

Three prizes will be given in each group—$5 for the first prize, $3 for second, and $2 for third.

The rewards will be based on the best presentation of the contradiction of the statement, or the best examples of laws violating the principle, that the production of wealth is a service and benefit to the nation and to society.

Here is a good chance for students in high schools and colleges and other students not attending any school, but interested in good government, to give some thought and some expression on this fundamental principle, which is so necessary to be understood in a form of government where we have the right of franchise.

There is still plenty of room for contestants to win the prize. The list submitted so far has not been large and is not worthy of any prize on account of the merits. So, get busy and help your fellowmen understand the fundamental corner-stone of human relations and, at the same time, be rewarded in cash for the service. There are only a few days left before the contest closes.

Accident at Stanton

D. R. D. D. WAYNICK of 1908
North Flower street, director of the Association laboratories of Anaheim, was killed instantly at 12:50 p.m. today when his automobile was struck by a Pacific Electric passenger car on Katella road, Stanton.

Dr. Waynick was believed on his way to the farm bureau picnic at Irvine park. Absence of skid marks led investigating officers to believe that Dr. Waynick was not aware of the approach of the P. E. car. It was reported that the automobile was traveling at a fairly fast rate of speed.

Deputy Sheriffs Fred Humiston and Jim Musick and Coroner Earl Albey answered the call to the accident. The Waynick machine was completely demolished.

The body was taken to the Backs, Terry and Campbell funeral home in Anaheim where an inquest will be held later.

Dr. Waynick was alone in the machine.

The Pacific Electric car was in charge of Motorman M. S. Wygal and Conductor E. C. Griffin, both of Los Angeles.

Dr. Waynick is survived by his widow, Mrs. Berneice Waynick, and one son.

Prominent Agriculturist

Dr. Dean D. Waynick, killed this afternoon in a railroad crossing crash at Stanton, was one of the state's most prominent agriculturists and led in the development of the pro-rate plan for citrus marketing, being chairman of the state farm bureau committee on the pro-rate.

Coming to Orange county about 15 years ago, he founded the Association Laboratory at Anaheim in 1922, and has since managed it. He was a graduate of the University of California with a degree of doctor of philosophy, having majored in chemistry, and was widely known throughout the state as an authority on farm management, particularly with regard to soil management.

Last year he was summoned to Honolulu to advise a large land corporation there on its soil management practices.

LED PRO RATE FIGHT

As a member of the Orange County Farm Bureau board of directors in 1932 he led the preliminary activities that resulted in organizing the California pro-rate plan of 1933. In his chairmanship of the state pro rate committee he was actively engaged in the marketing agreement which later developed.

Dr. Waynick owned an orange grove near Anaheim and was a director of the Anaheim Citrus Association, representing that association on the board of the Central Fruit Exchange in Anaheim, and representing the central exchange on the board of the California Fruit Growers Exchange. He was chairman of the citrus department of the county farm bureau in 1934 and 1935.

He leaves a widow, Mrs. Berneice B. Waynick, and a son who attends Santa Ana Junior College.

'MEDDLING' BY GOVERNMENT IS HIT BY WOMEN

civilization depends upon the elimination of mass poverty.

"When government competes with private industry," he said, "the public gets no new product or service, and workers get no new jobs. If you want to injure laborers, one of the surest ways is to make it unprofitable for their employers to expand their operations."

A man is told that if he doesn't provide for himself the government will, and if he does provide for himself, the government will take the lion's share of his earnings to give to someone else. This discourages production, making the rich poor and poor poorer."

Carey said it is "a serious mistake that too many workers are coming from other countries to compete for new jobs being created here."

"California," he said, "could easily solve the problem of poverty for her own people, but even California cannot cure poverty of the whole world, or even of the United States."

The convention adjourned without taking action on a proposed resolution to advocate dissemination of birth control information.

Ten resolutions were approved, however. They included opposition to recognition of communists as a political party; opposition to repeal of the states sales tax;

opposition to a single tax; approval of a proposal to change the state migratory bird hunting season to coincide with those of Oregon and Nevada; advocacy of proper control of bovine tuberculosis tests; approval of proposals that all automobile drivers be fingerprinted; opposition to sale of liquor in public parks; request for a special study of taxation problems; advocacy of instruction in automobile driving in public schools, and more stringent examination of applicants for drivers' licenses.

BELMONT PARK, N. Y., May 16.—(UP)—A. G. Vanderbilt's Good Harvest was a surprise winner of the forty-third running of the Metropolitan Handicap, stellar attraction on a banner program here today.

Under a hard drive by Sammy Renick, the four-year-old gelding son of Epsom closed with a rush in the home stretch to win handily over Hall Price Headley's Whopper in going away fashion. John Gray Whitney's Singing Wood was third with George D. Widener's Sation, the favorite in the field of eight, unplaced.

SECRET RULE IS ESTABLISHED BY ETHIOPIANS

LONDON, May 16.—(UP)—Ethiopia has completed the establishment of a secret government to keep alive its identity and refute the Italian claim to its conquest.

Emperor Haile Selassie telephoned from Jerusalem today to his minister to Great Britain, Ajaz Warqon Martin.

Before he left Addis Ababa, the emperor told Martin, several of his ministers and generals left for the west to set up a government. He mandated the leaders to rule for him in his absence.

Seat of the government, it was learned, is at Gore, in the Iu Baro district of Gomma province, 225 miles west of Addis Ababa and 105 miles from the Sudan frontier, in a region never approached by the Italians.

British official reports are that the government actually is functioning. The government is believed to be headed by Ras Desta Demtu, Haile Selassie's son-in-law.

ITALY'S KING PROCLAIMED NEW EMPEROR OF ETHIOPIA

ROME, May 16.—(UP)—Upsetting predictions of dissenting votes, the Italian senate today unanimously approved royal decree annexing Ethiopia to Italy, proclaiming King Victor Emmanuel emperor and appointing Marshal Pietro Badoglio governor general and viceroy.

The unanimous vote surprised observers since several non-Fascists participated in the secret ballot cast by 337 senators. Italian senators are appointed for life and it has been anticipated there might be some votes against the decree, either directly or by abstention.

The Chamber of Deputies has ratified the decree.

Premier Benito Mussolini personally presented the bills embodying the royal decrees, but he did not speak. Eight princes of the royal blood, including Crown Prince Humbert, were among the spectators.

Other spectators included Prince Ernest R. von Starhemberg, ousted co-dictator of Austria, the ambassadors of Germany and Japan and the ministers of Austria and Hungary.

If Duke's silence was interpreted as meaning he is considering his course in view of the continuance of League of Nations penalties against Italy for its war on Ethiopia and the disconcerting Austrian coup d'etat of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg.

King Victor Emmanuel will sign the bills ratifying the annexation tomorrow.

WOMAN SOUGHT IN JAIL BREAK PLOT

WISCASSET, Me., May 16.—(UP)—A middle-aged woman, veiled and wearing dark glasses, was sought by police today for sending Reuben Brower, alleged wife-murderer, two hacksaw blades imbedded in a chocolate cake.

The cake, delivered to county jail by seven-year-old Robert Adams, was opened last night by Deputy Sheriff Harvey Sprague, preparatory to serving it for the prisoner's supper.

The Adams boy said a veiled woman with dark glasses, known only as "Mrs. Jackson," had asked him to deliver the cake for 20 cents.

William B. Hart of Pasadena, his father, told police Hart had been terrorized by gamblers to whom he lost heavily. Hart had $5000 in travelers' cheques in his possession Monday, it was reported.

Hold Two Cubans In Mexican Plot

Cruz Perez, charged with a statutory offense against his 18-year-old stepdaughter, yesterday changed his plea from not guilty to guilty, and applied for probation. Superior Judge G. K. Scovell set his hearing for May 29.

Justice Emerson J. Marks, of the fourth district court of appeals, now sitting in San Diego, was in Santa Ana today for a week-end visit with his son, Adrain Marks. Justice Marks was formerly an Orange county superior court judge.

Absence of two attorneys appointed by the court to defend Natividad Valenzuela, 24, charged with murder of his wife at Delhi a fortnight ago, caused Superior Judge James L. Allen late yesterday to postpone the defendant's arraignment and plea to Monday at 10 a.m. O. A. Jacobs and S. B. Kaufman have been appointed to defend him. Attorney Harry Westover announced yesterday in court that he may be employed for the defense.

Eight divorce decrees were granted at hearings in superior court late yesterday, as follows: Mildred A. Bell against John R. Bell, grounds cruelty; John W. Sanders against Charlotte M. Sanders, grounds desertion; Gertrude Lamb against Walter D. Lamb, grounds desertion; Maria Martinez against Luis Martinez, grounds cruelty; Bertha L. Drummond against Denver Drum, grounds desertion; Refugio Marquez against Ygnacio Marquez, grounds non-support; Lanie L. Gist against Lewis Gist, grounds desertion and non-support; Florence E. Faulkner against William E. Faulkner Jr., grounds cruelty.

The Ethopian trouble proved that the League has just been playing a harmless child's game. . . . You know, pinning the sanction on the Duce.

Of course, the impressarios of the theaters of war have been consolidating their star performers that everything will be all right if Uncle Sam only comes in. . . . Yes sir! He was the "angel" who backed that last big show.

Methodists Delay Two Prime Issues

COLUMBUS, O., May 16.—(UP)—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church anticipated adjournment Tuesday with the controversial social service issue still undebated and a pronouncement on birth control unlikely.

Flooded with mail and telephone calls today, a subcommittee recommended to the state of the church committee that no recommendation be made to the church's stand on birth control be made by the conference.

ALL CABINS AT CAMP ROKILL ARE MADE OVER

Camp Ro-ki-ll, the Orange county Boy Scout council's summer camp in the San Bernardino mountains, has a new front to offer campers for the future months, it was revealed today in an announcement from headquarters.

A moment later the roof collapsed and the man ran out. He was struck by a blast of bullets and fell backward into the fire.

Wallace, caretaker of the cemetery, had been asked to vacate the house. He had refused and for several days he and his sister had patrolled the grounds, armed with rifles and revolvers. Yesterday they threatened Mrs. George Zimm, a wealthy land owner. She notified Sheriff Young who swore out a juncture warrant. With Sergeant J. R. Yeager of the town police and State Policeman H. L. Delaney he went to the house. A shot through the door killed him.

Within minutes a small detachment of police had surrounded the house, staying out of range of the Negroes sniping from second floor windows. Darkness came and Young's brother tried to get to the house to drag away the sheriff's body from the porch. He was shot in the cheek. Mundy tried and was shot through the left arm and side. Messing was next and he received a bullet in the chest. Then McWilliams and Carr tried. McWilliams, shot in the shoulder, dragged Carr, who had been hit in the back, under the porch where they were safe from the fire coming from above, though endangered by the fire of the posse.

Under Porch for Hours

The two men remained under the porch for more than an hour. Finally the posse concentrated fire on one side of the house, which enabled them to drag themselves to safety.

The crowd grew steadily as word of the battle spread. Authorities at the marine barracks at Quantico, Va., refused a request to send an armored car and a detachment of machine gunners.

But state police rushed every machine gun they had available, and most of the private citizens came armed. In the crowd was a boy, not older than 12, firing a .22 caliber rifle. His sister went through the crowd soliciting ammunition for him from persons well supplied.

Tear gas and sulphur gas bombs were thrown into the house, but apparently their fumes were dissipated by cross draughts. As the hours dragged by, the crowd became enraged and screamed curses and threats. Finally, the house was fired. It burned for almost an hour while the Negroes continued to fire. Not until the roof collapsed did the end come.

The water supply has been rebuilt, assuring campers of pure, cold mountain water supply, with the pressure 95 pounds, equal to any city water system's. Plans are shaping up for the greatest summer camp in Ro-ki-ll history so those with the camping fever should get reservations in early."

OFFICERS BOLSA P.-T.A. INSTALLED

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—A. Henry Ross, an attorney, and brother of Dr. Maxwell Ross, Brooklyn political leader, surrendered today at the district attorney's office on an indictment charging him with aiding in the blackmail extortion of $4900 from Alfred E. Smith, Jr.

Judge Dewell ruled that informa-

DEATH NOTICESA WORD OF COMFORT

Whistling to keep up your courage used to help when, as a little boy, you tremblingly walked along the dark road. It was no imagination it did help.

Now that you are grown up, act as though you feel as brave as you wish you were; gradually you will overcome the fear which seemed sufficient before your sorrow came will sustain you if you live true to it.

Unsounded as yet, there are confidence, and strength latent within you. March earnestly forward; you were not born to fail.

LYDIA SIMPSON IS CALLED IN SANITY TRIAL

Still unfinished when court recessed late yesterday, the insanity trial of Mrs. Lydia Pedroja Simpson, former Santa Ana newspaper employee, will be resumed Monday morning before a jury in Superior Judge G. K. Scovell's court, with Mrs. Simpson herself expected to continue testimony that she started shortly before adjournment.

The wife of the curator of New York City's Museum of Natural History, Dr. George Gaylord Simpson, was expected to present the final phase of her defense against the insanity charge. She had barely launched into her testimony, under questioning of her attorney, William J. Heinz, of Anaheim, when court was dismissed yesterday.

Her statements dealt chiefly with her literary work and had not touched upon local incidents which assertedly led to the filing of the insanity complaint by a Santa Ana police detective, Charles Wolford.

The final prosecution witness, Mrs. Dexter Rankin Ball, wife of a Santa Ana physician and member of the Ebell club, did, however, deal with some of these incidents, including Mrs. Simpson's appearance before a section of the Ebell club when she discussed the works of Thornton Wilder, the author.

After Mrs. Simpson's appearance there had created a sensation among the membership, Mrs. Simpson was said to have accused Mrs. Mona Summers Smith, assistant city librarian and prominent in the Community Players, of plying her with liquor at lunch before the meeting. Mrs. Smith had given such testimony in court to support her opinion that Mrs. Simpson is insane.

Mrs. Ball yesterday described other contacts with Mrs. Simpson, who, she said, once rushed into the Ball home and asked Mrs. Ball to hide her from the police.

A surgeon and a psychiatrist testified for the defense yesterday that Mrs. Simpson is sane. One was Dr. H. T. Poulsen, surgeon at a Pasadena hospital, who had treated Mrs. Simpson. He said he was not a psychiatrist, but expressed the belief that Mrs. Simpson is sane. Her actions, he said, were not unusual under the stress of circumstances surrounding her.

Dr. E. F. Russell, of Santa Barbara, Mrs. Simpson's personal physician, and also physician to Harold McCormick, the harvester magnate, at a reputed fee of $30,000 per year, testified that, in his opinion, Mrs. Simpson is sane. He said she was an "unusual" and "intense" person, and admitted under cross-examination that she might profit from intensive psychiatric work.

Other witnesses yesterday afternoon included Braden Finch, Jr., C. Holles and C. H. Holles, Santa Ana newspapermen.

California's Volcano Grumbles, Steams and Shakes

A volcano in action may be among the Far West's scenic attractions this year, as recent temblors, rumbles, and accelerated steam spouting have been reported from Mt. Lassen, in Northern California. This 13,000-foot peak was in spectacular eruption in 1914 and 1915. Photo shows a view of the peak and Desolation Valley, a timbered area which was overwhelmed by the flow of lava and mud.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Granas, 2404 Santiago avenue, Miss Audrey Granas, 17, senior at Santa Ana high school, today received word from Northwestern University officials that she had been highly honored as the only California girl to receive a summer scholarship in Journalism at Northwestern, in Evanston, Ill.

Examinations taken by Miss Granas, by which she won, university officials informed her today, were judged with consideration for fine record in scholarship and extra-curricular work. She will leave for Evanston by train in time to be there for opening class on June 29. Miss Granas, who has been majoring in journalism here, said today.

The board appointed William Driscoll to succeed Hardin.

TWO ARRESTED ON CHARGES OF THEFT

On complaint of E. H. Wood, Los Angeles, owner of oil well equipment on the Darby ranch, east of Adams, in Costa Mesa, two men were arrested at their Los Angeles home yesterday and charged with grand theft, involving the alleged stealing of $3000 worth of materials.

The men were J. Deltzman and Glen Harding, oil workers. The alleged theft of a portable drilling rig, 1200 feet of three-inch drill pipe, tools and bits, occurred between February 15 and March 1, Georgia Liengang, Wood employee, reported to the sheriff's office yesterday. Sheriff Logan Jackson immediately sent out a state-wide teletype message on warrants of arrest issued by Justice D. J. AUTO ACCIDENT VICTIM TODAY NEARING DEATH

Condition of Earl Warrecker, 18, 8½ 1/2 North Van Ness avenue, who is still unconscious at Orange county hospital, suffering from fractured skull, fractured pelvis and internal injuries, was reported "grave" by hospital attendants today.

Riding on the running board of a car driven in Irvine park Wednesday night by Thomas Johnston, 18, 1324 Polkettia, Warrecker was crushed against a tree along the edge of the road as the Johnston car was forced to sideswipe it in avoiding a collision with another car. Warrecker is a son of Mrs. Nellie Dearborn. He has never regained complete consciousness, it is reported, since the mishap.

In another accident, in Santa Ana canyon yesterday afternoon, Haskell Dykes, 29, of Arlington, was riding on the rear of a motorcycle operated by Fred Miller, also of Arlington, received severe head, face and hand lacerations as the motorcycle and an automobile sideswiped. Miller was slightly injured. Dykes was still confined at Orange county hospital today.

It all happened when 140 Round Table invited him to partake of their usual noonday fare at Fullerton.

Eight counts occurred in rapid succession. 1. Going into Fullerton in his car, the judge was suddenly pounced upon by Officer John Gregory; 2. his car was impounded as he was manacled securely and rushed to the Round Table

SANTA ANANS REACH FINALS IN L. A. SHOW

All Set for Strange Voyage

Five young Santa Ana entertainers, winners in the Los Angeles Assistance League amateur show at the Los Angeles Ebell theater last night, were scheduled to compete this evening in the same theater with finalists from Whittier, Burbank, Inglewood, San Pedro, Beverly Hills, Huntington Park Hollywood, Van Nuys, Pasadena and Santa Monica.

Seeking the theatrical film or radio opportunities awaiting tonight's winners will be Bill Purinton, tap dancer; Patti and Peggy Redman, harmony singers and dancers; Betty Jean Wardy, 8-year-old blues singer; and Lora LaRue, dramatic reader.

This quintet of performers survived the competition between Santa Ana's 14 entrants and the Whittier entrants at the Los Angeles theater last night. The 14 from Santa Ana were those who won places in the Santa Ana amateur show sponsored by the Santa Ana Assistance League at the Santa Ana Ebell club last February 25 and 26.

"Spotters" of talent were present in the theater last night, from radio, film and theater. One Whittier amateur received an offer from RKO immediately after the show.

Bill Purinton, the Santa Ana tap dancer, was one of the hits of last night's show, receiving enthusiastic applause.

The series of amateur shows, culminating in tonight's finals, have been arranged by Joe Bren under the designation of "Discoveries of 1936."

Bon Bard acted as master of ceremonies last night, introducing the various contestants, and several guest artists, including Marian Marsh, Edith Fellows, Eric Rhodes, who play an important role in "Top Hat," and has just finished "One Rainy Afternoon" with Francis Lederer, also Jetta Goudal, former film star.

Ruth Rowland, wife of Bard, was mistress of ceremonies during the latter part of the program.

JAYSEE FIESTA PLAY LAUDED BY BIG CROWD

Declared by many in the audience to be the best work done in several years by a Santa Ana junior college drama class, the long anticipated Fiesta play, "The Command Performance" last night drew almost capacity house to Willard auditorium where the success of the opening night is expected to be duplicated tonight when the play will be repeated.

Ernest Crozier Phillips, head of the drama department, has reason to be proud of the manner in which the cast headed his guidance and brought to the play, a fine understanding of its dramatic and comedy values. For "A Command Performance" is a delightful little comedy laid in the mythical kingdom of Moldavia. Its author, C. Stafford Dickens, juggles crowds in a manner possible only in the land of make-believe, but does it so convincingly, this his situations, invested with the sincerity which last night's cast gave, seem within the realm of the possible.

Agnes Brady, and Arthur Coleman have the spectacular leading roles, and if you are not aware that these junior college students can act, go see tonight's performance and be convinced. But it isn't just Miss Brady as the spoilt but altogether charming "Katerina" (princess of Wallachia) and Arthur Coleman in the dual role of "Peter Kraditch" leading man of a repertoire company and again as "Alexis" (prince of Moldavia), but it is every member of this capable cast that carries the gay little play through to its happy ending.

Lawrence Novlan as the chancellor, was especially good. But so again was Joe Yocam as the "heavy" in the repertoire company. So was Jeannette Bodman as the ingenue; so were the two queens, "Elinor of Moldavia" played with fine dignity by Betty Jane Moore, and "Elizabeth of Wallachia" done with an amusing touch of shrewishness by Jeanne Kay, as was eminently fitting in comparison with Kenneth Stewell's entertainment "King Nicholas."

Nor were the director and stage manager of the repertoire company, played by James Doyle and William Backman presented any less able than the major roles, while the appearances of Jason Hodges as the police sergeant; William Ladium as "Flaubert" and Emmett Morgan as the secretary, of last night, is anticipated.

CONFIDENCE
WASHINGTON, May 16.—It did not last out at the time, but President Roosevelt had a few of his congressional leaders in for a little private pow-wow a few nights back. They discussed relief, taxes, Frazier-Lemke and politics in general.

The ears of the congressional leaders were flattened when they heard the President say something substantially amounting to this: "Don't worry about me any more. Look out for yourselves now."

In the Democratic cloakroom the suggestion is being interpreted as meaning that the President considers his political position secure. He does not need any more help. The whip may be laid aside.

This change of attitude may have a material effect upon the handling of pending last-minute legislation.

HIDDEN PRINCIPALS

Congressmen studiously avoided mentioning the name of Father Coughlin in the debate on the Frazier-Lemke bill. One of Coughlin's congressional friends got near enough to suggest "social justice" and to threaten "radio influence." Of course, everyone knew what brand of social justice and radio influence he was talking about.

What was not so well known was the fact that Mr. Roosevelt counseled and stood four-square behind his House leaders, if, indeed, he did not push them on.

However, the two hidden principals in the fight know it and the leaders here are beginning to wonder what Father Coughlin will do about it in the coming campaign.

POWER

The Democratic politicos may be wrong, but they sized up the inside Coughlin influence about like this:

Approximately 20 of the 142 votes registered for the Frazier-Lemke bill came from industrial centers. These were apparently the only votes which Coughlin influenced. The other 122 votes came from farming districts. These votes would undoubtedly have been registered for the bill even if the Detroit priest had never been heard of.

But beyond this, a large number of Congressmen were absent. A total of 51 were listed as not voting. Of these, 22 were officially announced as being on one side or the other. But 19 Congressmen were unrecorded.

One of these shy 19 was seen sitting in the House the time of the vote. His name was called, but he did not choose to answer.

The bulk of the 19 duders were frightened out of taking a position against the bill because of fear of what Father Coughlin would do to them. At least this is what the leaders say, and believe.

Thus they compute the Coughlin bloc in the House now as numbering around 30 votes more or less.

The half dozen Coughlin victories in primaries (Pennsylvania and Ohio) lend most sound observers here to expect that his forces in the next Congress will be enlarged but little.

That is, they are looking forward to a Coughlin bloc of perhaps 50 members at the most, 30 or 35 at least. This is approximately 8 to 11 per cent of the membership.

Blocs of this size can only be influential if the normal Republican and Democratic groups are nearly equally divided.

KILLED
What makes the Senate suspicious of the bedraggled tax bill is that so many large corporations which usually mass high-priced lawyers against revenue measure have been conspicuously silent and absent this time.

Had the heavy taxpayers indorsed the proposal, it would have aroused even more political opposition. But their acquiescence has stirred sufficient political concern to cool off the early enthusiasm for the proposition, though it was originally hailed as the kind of revenue-raising scheme which could be safely passed in a re-election year. Meanwhile, owners of small corporations and business houses have flooded Capitol Hill with letters to the effect that all initiative and expansion would be killed by the surplus division clause.

with an anecdote which won't help the bill. He tells how he asked a prominent New York industrialist why he did not oppose the measure. CENSUS

U. S. C. of C.-ers don't intend to let Secretary Roper put them in a false light with respect to join efforts to solve the unemployment problem. They are passing out word that their only contribution will be a survey to discover how many men business and industry can re-employ in the immediate future.

The Chamber will not undertake a canvass of the unemployed, although that impression has got abroad. It will leave that ticklish task to Messrs Roosevelt and Hobson.

Through local chambers of commerce it will issue a questionnaire to discover, if possible, whether industry has muffed or evaded the re-employment problem as completely as FDR suggests. The survey will be in the nature of an answer, and it will be on record before the political campaign begins. The inquiry will be conducted immediately and at high speed.

Now it turns out that the government's promised census of the unemployed won't start until late fall. It was originally planned to use WPA workers, but it has been decided that they aren't sufficiently competent for the job. The Census Bureau will handle it and will utilize several months to train canvassers. Thus the first real estimate of the jobless won't be available until after election.

CORRAL

Republican Old Guardsmen who cheer at Senator Borah's inability to snap up convention delegates may be rejoicing prematurely. There appears to be more than face-saving in the Idahoan's private assurances that he is satisfied with his congress.

His backers concede that he may not turn up at Cleveland with a large bloc of delegates; they admit that he may not muster more than 50 or 60. But they have analyzed his vote in the various primaries and despite his defeats, they figure that he has captured at least 45 per cent of all the ballots cast. He ran strongest, of course, in rural districts. They contend that the G. O. P. cannot neglect that showing when it comes to naming a candidate and framing a program.

The people worrying the most over Mr. Borah's post-convention behaviour are the Landontons. Fully expecting the Kansan to be named, they are anxious to remain on friendly terms with the influential Progressive. They think they detect signs that he will not turn into a boister or bitter-end, as predicted. They will make a move to corral him before or at the convention.

STATE'S MULE DEER IMPERILED
California's Finest Game Being Slaughtered, Claim

URGE REPEAL OF PRESENT LAW

By SHERMAN MONTROSE
(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

Because of a change in deer hunting regulations, which permits taking of forked-horn Rocky Mountain mule deer bucks, California sportsmen and conservationists fear that the state's most important species of game is threatened with extinction.

The successful quest for one of the mighty lords that range the lava beds of Modoc and Lassen counties is to the average sportsman the nimrod's crowning achievement. This beautiful animal is noted for his size, his massive antlers, and sagacity in eluding hunters.

Before the 1935 season, it was unlawful to shoot a mule deer buck bearing fewer than three points on each side. In the spring of 1935, however, the state legislature passed a "conservation" measure, permitting each hunter to kill one buck bearing a minimum of two points on each side.

The measure was passed because of consistent reports that many forked-horn bucks were killed and left to rot by careless shooters who had fired at the first sign of horns, and who "hadn't bothered to count the points."

Immediately, a storm of protest over the measure arose. Representing the voice of opponents of the law is James C. Jarman, president of the Alturas chamber of commerce.

"The present law eventually will destroy the mule deer," he says.

WEIGHT TUMBLERS

In past years it was possible for a hunter to pick his deer, and specimens ranging from 300 to more than 400 pounds went out of Modoc county. Dry weather during the last decade has whittled 50 pounds from the average deer, and the forked-horn tag caused the general average to be around 150 pounds this season.

"Unless that forked-horn law is repealed, I believe that in another decade it will be a rarity to see a deer in these mountains that will dress 100 pounds."

"There were hundreds of barrens this year. Next season there will be more. I can see the ultimate destruction of deer in these forests if the present wanton slaughter continues."

Where only a few local sportsmen sought mule deer 10 years ago, now opening day sees thousands of numbers pouring into the comparatively small area that is the animal's native habitat.

In 1927, start of the present "tag" system inaugurated by the Division of Fish and Game, 800 mule deer were killed in Modoc and Lassen counties. Total kill for the state that year was 18,507.

In 1935, however, the total kill had grown to 2662, as opposed to a kill over the entire state of 21,996.

Illegal hunting, despite vigilance of game wardens, is believed to have increased in recent years, due to economic stress and unemployment. During winter months, when mule deer herds are snowbound, illegal hunters are said to take a terrific toll.

TARZAN TAYLOR LEADS CHOIR

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SOUTHPORT, Eng., May 16.— Bridget Newell of Derbyshire, a plump little 26-year-old English girl, won the medal today in the 36-hole qualifying rounds of the British Women's golf championship.

Shooting a 74, one under par, for the second 18-hole round, the compact unknown returned an aggregate of 152 to lead three of her countrywomen by two strokes.

All eight American Curtis Cup stars qualified easily. The other American competitor, Deborah Bryer of Marion, Mass., failed to make the grade. She shot 92 today for an aggregate of 182—seven strokes short of the 175 qualifying limit.

Behind Miss Newell, whose par breaking round was the only one turned in during two days of play, were Wanda Morgan of Whitestable, Kent, the defending champion; Jessie Anderson, Perth, Scotland, and Mrs. J. B. Walker, Ireland. All had 154.

Leading the American contingent were Patty Berg, 18-year-old Minneapolis red-head, and Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, Texas, with 156 each.

Patty, who had a 78 yesterday, bettered that mark by two strokes today. Mrs. Goldthwaite, whose 75 led the first round, slumped and took an 81, six strokes over par.

We walked beside the singers, but they never noticed. At the finish of the Faust number the leader introduced a Broadway guy from the Hot Foot club downtown. He's gonna do us a number, and he's red-hot. Listen to me right up and send 'em scrapin'.

Suedo shoes whipped into "Goody-Goody" and the team swayed and beat its feet to the rhythm. As suede shoes finished, the leader, with an amazing change of tone and manner, barked:

"Okay boys. Now get out there and lemme see a scrimmage that's rough, tough and ornery."

Five minutes later the "glee club" boys, most of whom played on the Marquette team which lost but one game last year, were out on the field blocking, running and tackling with savage vengeance.

Then I met the leader—John

(Tarzan) Taylor, Marquette's line coach and chief assistant to Coach Frank Murray, an All-American lineman at Ohio State in the days when that school had such players as Harley and Stinchcomb.

They're had some rough and ready gents at Ohio State, but they say Brother Taylor, when he really dug his cleats in, and hoisted that bull neck of his, could give 'em all a head start in starting—and finishing—trouble.

"How'd we start this singing business?" he asked right back at my question. "Well, I'll tell you. We've been singing here for 14 years. Coach Murray started it, and we'll be singing as long as Marquette plays football."

"There's nothing like it for a football team. They say music soothes the savage breast and they're right, it does.

There's nothing like singing to take the tension off a football squad. We do our best numbers in the dressing room between halves."

"Two or three verses of 'Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet' will do more to relax an excited, nervous bunch of kids than anything I know. And a good stirring song like that 'Soldiers Chorus' you just heard us singing, will pick 'em right up and send 'em scrapin'.

Singing does something else, too, Tarzan explained. It teaches harmony, slick cooperation, and subordination of the individual for the unit.

"A bunch of boys that can sing together, can play together. It gives 'em rhythm, and that's what you need in a line and in a backfield, just as much as you need in a choir."

Rotary Aids Recreational Plan At L. B.

LAGUNA BEACH, May 16.—At the Friday luncheon of the Laguna Beach Rotary club, Linton T. Simmons, superintendent of public schools and chairman of the recreation committee of 21 which has been conducting a survey of recreational needs and possibilities, was guest speaker.

Simmons, in outlining the progress made to date, stressed the fact that the principal object in view is to secure the appointment by the city council of a recreational commission, similar in make-up and authority to commissions now functioning in other cities, notably in Long Beach.

The public card party was announced for the evening of May 23 at the clubhouse.

The setting for the flower show was a cottage garden and with growing roses and vines entwined about it, with flower garden, rock garden and fish pond. Gold fish and water lilies were loaned for the exhibit by the Pacific Gold Fish farm.

The porch of the house was formed by the clubhouse stage. An orchestra composed of Mrs. Ed. L. Hensley, Mrs. May Finley, Mrs. Orion Beamer, Mrs. Lucille Wise, presented a program while tea was being served.

The floral displays were arranged down the sides of the club auditorium and included several hundred exhibits. Mrs. J. A. Houlihan had the largest number of plants, divided among the several divisions, and one table of 12 miniature displays. Mrs. Nellie Sweene was a close second.

Those who had exhibits included Mrs. J. A. Houlihan, Mrs. Nellie Sweene, Mrs. A. N. McAllister, Mrs. Ray Davis, Mrs. Wm. Moore, Mrs. Lowry, Mrs. Paul Severson, Mrs. S. E. Davies, Mrs. R. R. Suess, Mrs. C. A. Whittet, Mrs. Gall Dunstan, Mrs. Ray Miller, Mrs. Byron Tags, Mrs. C. C. Campbell, Mrs. Harry Kingsbury, Mrs. N. A. Nelson, Mrs. Wm. Schmidt, Mrs. Homer Hibborn, Mrs. Von Balboa in 1886 and became active in civic affairs of this community. She was identified with the city through its development and was active in Ebell and other club affairs.

President, Mrs. A. A. Schmitzger; vice president, Mrs. E. P. Williams; recording secretary, Mrs. E. R. Schneider; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edward Chaffee; treasurer, Mrs. J. O. Arkley.

Secretaries selected are as follows: Queen Esther, Miss Veda Barnes; literature and education, Mrs. Elmer Launders; Christian citizenship, Mrs. S. R. Fitz; mite box, Mrs. S. C. After all secretaries of the past year had reported the mite box opening was conducted by Mrs. S. C. Oertly. A short business session was held by the Foreign society under the direction of Miss Mettie Chaffee.

Hostess committee for luncheon was Mrs. Charles Edwards, Mrs. Elmer Launders and Mrs. Robert McDonald.

The program arranged for the afternoon by Miss Mettie Chaffee was on the theme, "World's Citizenship." Those reading articles were Mrs. J. O. Arkley, Mrs. T. C. Natland, Mrs. S. C. Oertly and Mrs. E. M. Dozier.

INITIATION HELD BY ANAHEIM GROUP

LAGUNA BEACH, May 16.—Nearly 100 children of the first to fourth elementary grades participated in the operetta "Fairies Are Really True," which was presented at Laguna Beach High school auditorium Friday night before a capacity audience of over 500 people.

The little play in three acts was staged by Mrs. Dorothy O'Toole Gross of the elementary school faculty, assisted by Mrs. Laurette Chilton, music instructor at the school. Following selection by the orchestra of children directed by Miss Josephine Hills, the curtain rose on a set representing a daisy field, the flowers being played by children costumed as petalled flowers.

In rapid and surprisingly smooth succession were depicted the adventures in Fairland of two children who, at first skeptical of the existence of fairies, are convinced by the Fairy Queen, after a visit to Fairland, that "really, truly fairies" do exist. Principal parts were played by Carol Roush, as Dotty; Harry Brahmans, as Teddy, Elizabeth Duncan, as the Fairy Queen, Joan Zava, as the runaway fairy. Attendants were Barbara Simmons and Susan Buckley. The fairy chariot was attended by Douglas Thompson, Bobbie Walter and Ralph Swingle.

Group of fairies, depicted in dance and dialogue, the characteristics and activities of their respective fairy groups.

Electrical effects and special lighting by John Marshall added much to the effectiveness of the playlet, which was given for the benefit of the picture fund of the elementary school, which fund has already acquired several outstanding pictures by Laguna Beach artists.

Supper was served on small tables. The business session was conducted by Miss Juanita Duncan, Miss Ferne Schmitzger and Miss Mary Dolf.

Present were Miss Vaise Patterton, guest; Miss Frances Hammonter, Joy and Ferne Schmitzger, Lois and Ferne Mark, Lida and Ferne Mitchell, May and Beatrice Dolf, Marjorie Heusted, Juanita Duncan, Phyllis Ralston and the advisor, Miss Mabel Head.

Mrs. Gross was given much commendation upon the work achieved in training directing the group of children. A second performance is under consideration.

But if she thought Honey was the only one to talk about her, Linda was mistaken. The girls in Hollywood were no different from the girls in Newtown, Keokuk, Des Moines or any other place where one popular girl, lacking a free and easy manner, is often mistaken for a snob. Since Linda gave little thought to people who did not fit in, she agreed, but postponed the wedding.

HONEY HARMON, film star, comes to Newtown, making a "personal appearance" tour, and buys a Mario written for Linda. Linda goes to Hollywood to meet him, and, by expressing ideas that are really Peter's, acquires a reputation for being able to discover what is in a celebrity.

Dix Carter comes to Hollywood to get into films as an actor. Linda tries to help him. To please Dix, Linda goes to the USO, director, to her home, though she dislikes and distrusts Thorne.

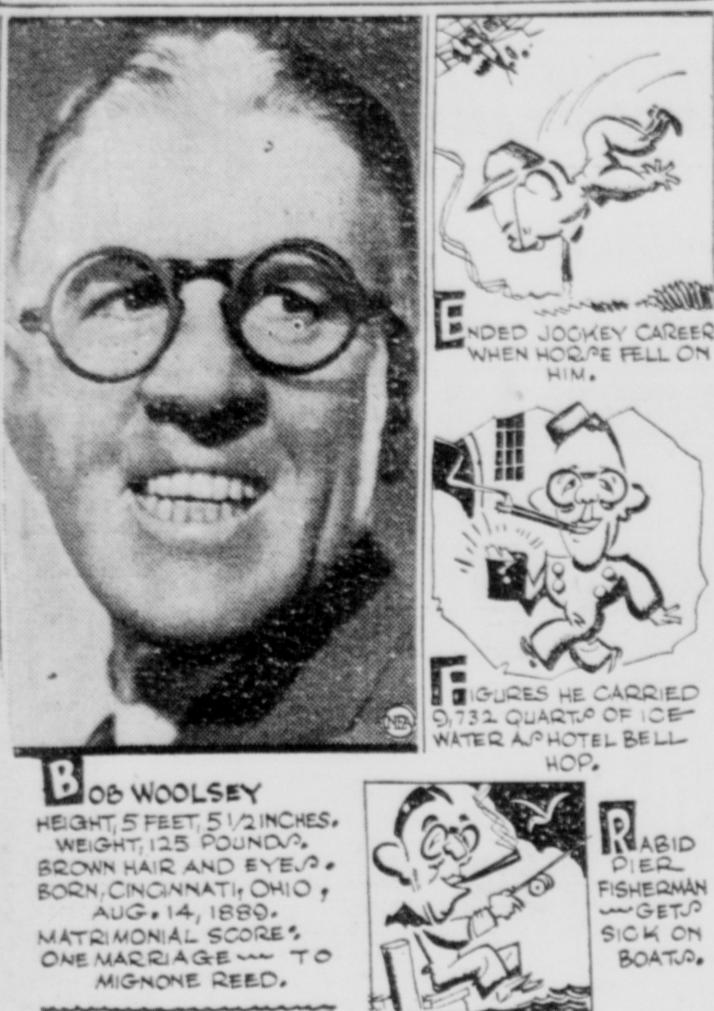

Peter Gardner writes a successful play and comes to Honey.

Thorne drives Linda to a mountain resort where the company is to begin work next day. The others in the car are too terrible with the car and Linda and Thorne are obliged to stay through the night.

HOLLYWOOD, May 16.—During the month I have been campaigning for studio recognition of the plight of former stars who are so in need of work, many stories of sadness have found their way to my ears. None is more pleasant to repeat than this of a group of directors who have been long associated with the film industry, and who have known members of the acting profession since Hollywood's earliest days.

Robert McGowan, Henry Hathaway, John Ford, Norman McLeod, Norman Taurog, Nick Barrows and a few more old-time directors who are still listed as among the most active, have obtained a list of former stars, writers and general workers who have hit the toboggan. Whenever opportunity presents, these directors provide work for the people on their list. And lest you conceive the wrong idea, their roll is not made up of a chosen few; any distressed old-timer can get on that list simply by application to one of the directors of the group.

Met ebony-colored Bill Robinson hurrying along Hollywood boulevard a few minutes ago, asked the reason for his rush. "Jes' gotta telegram from Florida," Bill explained. "Gotta wire Pete fifty dollars. Pete's full name, but what difference? Robinson is one of the biggest hearted actors, white or black. There is a perpetual Pete or Jack or Bob in need of help, and Robinson never fails to hear their pleas.

Robinson, by the way, taught Eleanor Powell, Eleanor Whitney, and Shirley Temple much of what these actresses know about tap dancing. He is therefore being questioned constantly as to which he regards as the best pupil. Bill has a way of saving himself embarrassment. He invariably answers: "Miss Powell is the bes' woman dancer. Miss Whitney is the bes' girl dancer. And Miss Shirley is the bes' chil' dancer."

Jack Oakie is another actor, who for all his levity, is not forgetful of old friends. A few years ago an electrician nick-named "Tiny" met Oakie in a small restaurant. Jack was broke and pretty well discouraged with Hollywood. "Tiny" took him in tow and together they went to Universal Studio, where the electrician had a few friends. That day Director Wesley Ruggles gave Oakie his first screen job, and from that inauspicious start, Jack climbed to his present success. "Tiny" has not fared so well, but that is not Oakie's fault. Jack takes care of him, and on every picture in which the comedian works, he sees to it that somebody provides a job for his pal. I leave it to you to guess who "Tiny" thinks is the world's grandest guy.

Contract Bridge

By Hazel Parr Thronson
(Certified Culbertson Teacher)

It was my privilege a few weeks ago to attend a teachers' convention in Los Angeles personally conducted by Ely Culbertson. He has a most pleasing and dynamic personality for he kept us all interested and enthused to the end of strenuous two days and two nights session. The whole Culbertson system was reviewed and he thoroughly explained his new Asking Bids and the new Two-Way Three Bids. However, basically the Culbertson system is about the same this year as it was last and it is likely to remain so for some time to come.

Naturally there will always be some improvements as time goes on, but the fundamentals will be much the same as you will always have to know how to count your Honor tricks and winning tricks, etc. Ninety per cent of the time you will be able to arrive at the correct contract by direct methods as taught according to the Culbertson system of 1935. In fact the 1935 Culbertson system has proven so satisfactory that there is no need to change it, other than to add new ideas as they are worked out by Mr. Culbertson and his associates.

And, Mr. Culbertson now has a new idea whereby players can reach possible slams by using the new Asking Bid. That is, instead of telling your partner what you have which was always ambiguous at times, you now ask your partner if he holds certain high cards in which you are interested in locating. Responses to these Asking Bids have been worked out and you can answer your partner—"Yes, I have the card you want and the ace of so-and-so be sides," or "No, I haven't it, I've a couple of little ones and we better not try for the slam." It almost sounds like cheating doesn't it. But, this grand new bid can be used very successfully in reaching slams or avoiding slam bids which cannot be made.

The new Asking Bid shows nothing, but merely asks. It is never up to your partner to try to guess

Modern Poets

By MISS BEULAH MAY

Two sonnets from the Collected Poems of Robert Hillyer.

Today as I passed through the market-place I saw so many things that you might want; Don't scold me, I was not extravagant.— A few necessities, that's all, in case You should be lonely; a papyrus plant From Egypt, an old saint with a green face; A unicorn—quite tame; a bit of lace Woven from cobwebs; and an elephant. Please don't be cross; I sold a poem today, And really you must have these useful things; Look! here's the best of all; I can not say Just what it is, but it has lovely wings. Shines like a rainbow, too. Good God! it's gone. Kiss me. Don't cry. I'll find another one.

The mirrors of all ages are the eyes Of some remembering god, whereon are sealed The beauties of the world, the April field, Young faces, blowing hair, and autumn skies.

The mirrors of the world shall break and yield To life again what never really dies;

The forms and colors of earth's pageantries Unwithered and undimmed shall be revealed. And in that moment silence shall unfold Forgotten songs that she has held interred, The ocean rising on the shores of gold, Flecked with white laughter and love's lyric word; All happy music that the world has heard; All beauty that eternal eyes behold.

NEW PROGRAM TO OPEN ON MAY 24

"Sons 'O Gums," with the noted comedian Joe E. Brown and Joan Blondell at the head of a talented cast, is scheduled to open at the Broadway theater on Sunday, May 24. It was announced today by Manager Lester J. Founain. Second feature on the program is "Absolute Quiet," with Stuart Erwin and Ann Loring.

In recent months, exports of German champagne have increased considerably, with Great Britain being the most important market.

Jack was broke and pretty well discouraged with Hollywood. "Tiny" took him in tow and together they went to Universal Studio, where the electrician had a few friends. can now compel your partner to bid seven.

I am planning on starting a Wednesday afternoon class covering the new bids for those who already know how to play an average game of contract bridge, also another class for beginners on Thursday afternoons. This class will cover the Culbertson System from the beginning such as how to count Honor Tricks, biddable suits, opening one bids and their responses etc. After learning how to make the ordinary bids and responses upon which the entire system is based, it will be time enough to learn the one or two new advanced bids.

Interest and suspense in the duel between the girl as the mouthpiece of the crooks and the young prosecutor seeking to pin Talbot and his henchmen with conviction evidence of murder charges largely in deliberate jury-baiting tricks and courtroom wiles on the girl's part, ably abetted by her partner, Glenda Farrell. The film, said to be a rare mixture of smart dialogue, fast action, romance and comedy, satirizes certain aspects of the legal profession.

Mr. Culbertson states that the average player will arrive at the same contract as the expert ninety per cent of the time. The remaining ten per cent cover the "Swing Hands" and an expert may arrive at a better contract due to experience and advanced bidding. Note I say "may" arrive because even an expert only makes the grade seventy per cent of the ten per cent. That is how Mr. Culbertson explained it to us, so it is easy to understand why it is necessary to learn how to arrive at the correct contract ninety per cent of the time, before attempting the other ten.

Interest and suspense in the duel between the girl as the mouthpiece of the crooks and the young prosecutor seeking to pin Talbot and his henchmen with conviction evidence of murder charges largely in deliberate jury-baiting tricks and courtroom wiles on the girl's part, ably abetted by her partner, Glenda Farrell. It is just as important to know how to respond to an Asking Bid as it is to make one. Both partners must know the ins and outs of the new bid. It is never used until the partnership has agreed upon the trump suit and is usually a bid in a new suit at the level of four or more. The bid itself asks for the second round control and what aces, if any. The answers have been worked out so your partner can make a definite response.

As a matter of fact, it is not complicated once you catch on to the idea. But it is necessary to get down to business and study carefully, or take lessons and have them explained in detail. After the Asking Bids are understood, one cannot help but wonder why someone didn't think of this beautiful bid before.

Opening Three Bids can now either be weak with just a very strong trump suit and nothing else, or they can be a very strong trump suit and outside honor strength just short of an opening Two Bid. The name "Two-Way Three Bids" is self explanatory. The new angle is more in the responses as you now can keep the bidding open with very little. The partner of the opening three bidder does not know what type of hand it is, until the original bidder has the opportunity to pass or rebid.

Then there is the new "Grand Slam Force." If your partner makes a free five no-trump bid under certain circumstances and you hold two of the high card he wishes to know about, you are obliged to bid seven. Doesn't that sound interesting. Just think, you

"FRISCO KID" AND CHARLIE CHAN AT STATE

AT BROADWAY TODAY

Flashing out of the pages of Ouida's immortal drama of the French Foreign Legion, the screen version of "Under Two Flags" stars Ronald Colman and Claudette Colbert in roles that carry the two great stars to greater heights. The film opens an engagement at the Broadway theater today.

NOW AT WEST COAST

All decked in the finery of King Arthur's court, you see below Will Rogers in the picture "A Connecticut Yankee," film version of the famous novel by Mark Twain which is the current attraction at the West Coast theater. Myrna Loy, shown below with Will Rogers, plays the principal featured role in the romantic comedy. Second feature on the program is "Man Hunt," a thrilling romantic drama.

DRAMA OF AIR. COURT FILM TO OPEN THURSDAY

Test pilots, unsung heroes of aviation, are given recognition for their valorous deeds in a roaring drama, "Devil's Squadron," starring Richard Dix, which will open at the Broadway theater next Thursday with a second feature, "Law In Her Hands," compelling new drama.

The cast in "Devil's Squadron" includes Karen Morley, Lloyd Nolan, Billy Burrudd, Shirley Ross, Henry Mallison, Gene Morgan and Gordon Jones. Most of the players are either licensed or student pilots.

According to the story of "Devil's Squadron," Dix and Nolan, two test pilots, fall in love with Miss Morley. Dix, because of an unjust stigma attached to his name and because he refuses to hurt Nolan, superintendent of the airport who gave Dix his chance to make good again, is unable to tell Miss Morley that he loves her. But close association with death amid flaming planes and strained nerves changes much, and the story goes on from its premise to a dramatic climax.

"The Law In Her Hands" offers a fresh angle on the law-versus-racketeer plot, with a woman attorney as the central figure. Rather daringly, the story identifies the woman lawyer, Margaret Lindsay, with the racketeer, Lyle Talbot, through retainer when professional failure seems imminent and a romance with the assistant district attorney, Warren Hull, runs into complications.

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, MAY 16, 1936

Greenwood Gables Provides Pleasant Luncheon Setting

Greenwood Gables, charming country home on Newport road of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Harry Sharpless, and scene of so many pleasant musical and social affairs, yesterday was opened to a group of friends invited by Mrs. Sharpless to have luncheon and spend an afternoon in playing contract.

Guests were received by the two daughters of the hostess, Mrs. Cecil J. Marks (Claire Sharpless) and Ada May Sharpless, one of California's most gifted sculptors, here from Los Angeles for a few days' visit at the ranch home. They lent assistance throughout the afternoon and served luncheons courses for their mother.

Mrs. Sharpless also had assistance of Mrs. J. F. Burke in the afternoon's hostess responsibilities. Luncheon tables were especially inviting, with their all-white linens, their slim crystal vases filled with petunias and columbine, and place cards depicting pretty Japanese maidens, each with her bright little parasol. These were souvenirs of one of the trips to the Orient of Mr. and Mrs. Sharpless.

Contract Scores

An interesting situation developed in the contract games introduced after luncheon, for which flower talles were distributed. For it was found when scores were tallied, that Mrs. Samuel M. Davis and Mrs. Charles Druitt had made exactly the same scores, far higher than those made by other players.

As a result, they cut the cards for first choice of the prizes, and each was delighted to receive a piece of the artistic pottery for which Mrs. Sharpless is noted. Mrs. Druitt had expressed a preference for blue, and chance decreed that her prize was a graceful blue flower bowl, while Mrs. Davis received a tall vase in oyster white crackleware.

Mrs. Robert G. Tuthill, with the afternoon's low score, found consolation in a small flower bowl filled with pansies. At the same time, Mrs. Sharpless expressed her appreciation for the assistance lent by Mrs. Burke and the lovely flowers she had provided, by presenting her with a vase in the same artistic crackleware as that won by Mrs. Davis.

Little Folks

Perhaps one of the pleasantest intervals of the afternoon was the brief appearance of Mrs. Marks' small sons and daughter, who paused in their rounds of the ranch home with Mr. Sharpless, to come in and be presented to their mother's and grandmother's friends. They were Master John Sharpless Marks, and the twins, Lucinda ("Sandy") and Don.

Mrs. Sharpless had included on her guest list for this enjoyable party, in addition to her daughters, Mesdames Holmes Bishop, C. P. Boyer, J. Frank Burke, Lloyd Cheneveth, A. J. Cruckshank, Samuel M. Davis, Charles Druitt, Emmett Elliott, Clarence Gustlin, Alice Hill Hatch, James K. Hermon, Loyall K. King, J. E. Liebig, Tarver Montgomery, Lewis Moulton, Sam W. Nau, C. O. Norton, James E. Paul, Alan A. Revill, C. M. Rowland, F. W. Slabaugh, E. R. Sprague, Leonard Swales, John A. Tessmann, Volney V. Tubbs, Robert G. Tuthill, Nelson Visel, John Wehrly, John Lucien Wehrly, M. Burr Wellington, Theo. A. Winbigler, Ernest Winbigler, Adam Zoller, Miss Louise Montgomery, Miss Gertrude Montgomery and Miss Louise Tubbs.

Mrs. Minnie M. Collins was elected leader of the Poetry section of Woman's club of Santa Ana to succeed Mrs. J. Edmund Snow this week at a morning meeting in the home of Mrs. Margaret Church, 606 South Main street. Mrs. E. G. Warner was named secretary.

Plans were made to hold a picnic on the next meeting day, Tuesday, June 9. Further announcement on arrangements for the affair will be made early next month.

Schubert Musicale Is Entertainment For University Women

Quite in harmony with the cultural atmosphere and aims of Orange County branch, American Association of University Women, was the setting afforded members Thursday night for a musicale for which they were privileged to stage the interesting event in the Gustlin studio on North Sycamore street.

Mrs. Horace Scott presided during the short interval devoted to business during which the Misses Dorothy Decker and Genevieve Humiston reported on the progress of plans for the annual Jaycee Student Loan fund benefit bridge to be held Saturday, May 23 at 1 o'clock in Ebell clubhouse.

Before turning the meeting over to Mrs. Mabel Spizy, program chairman, Mrs. Scott presented her successor in office, Miss Martha Ehien, who expressed appreciation to the University Women for their confidence in her shown by placing her in the presidency for the coming year. She expressed a desire to serve the organization with that same thoroughness and ability that has distinguished Mrs. Scott's discharge of presidential duties.

Mrs. Spizy had arranged with the host, Clarence Gustlin, for a Franz Schubert program, as a memorial to the great composer on his 139th anniversary. He was cited as the "supreme melodist" with more than 600 songs to his credit.

These exquisite lyrics were well represented by Miss Laura Joiner's choice of three solos, for which Miss Mildred Marchant played accompaniments. She sang his "Ode to Music" (in English) his "Death of the Maleden" (in German), and closed with the Latin version of "Ave Maria." The solo group was succeeded by the showing of films which portrayed scenes in the life of Schubert, and which had been placed at Mr. Gustlin's convenience by Miss Margaret Goetz. These were very fine, and members were informed that part of the collection, including films of operas, might be obtained for programs by other groups interested by communication with Mr. Gustlin.

In addition to his presenting the films, the studio head, and evening's host, added to the program a Bach group, playing "Chorale" by Bach-Hess, and "Gavotte" by Bach-Saint-Saens. He then presented Russell Rowland who played the Rachmaninoff Prelude in B flat major, and joined with Mr. Gustlin in the two-piano number, "Dark Dancers of the Mardi Gras" by Charles Wakefield Cadman. The program closed with Mr. Gustlin's encore for which he chose another Cadman number, "To a Comedian," dedicated by the composer to Charles Chaplin.

Neighborhood Club Enjoys Luncheon

Neighborhood club members were brought together for a pleasant event Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Roy Runnels was hostess in her home in Tustin.

Individual chicken pies were featured on the luncheon menu which was served at a table spread with a blue-embroidered linen cloth brought from China recently by Mrs. Runnels. Pink sweet peas and pink glass were used in furthering a pastel theme.

Mrs. Runnels' guests included Mesdames Owen Murray, Frank Greenwood, Earl Sharpless, Fenton Mathews, Ernest A. Watson, Arthur Trickey, Hollis Lindsey,

June Wedding Date Told At Pretty Party

Miss Marjorie Woods, daughter of Mrs. Nellie M. Woods, 807 North Broadway, and Charles E. Crumrine, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Crumrine of San Juan Capistrano, have selected June 21 as the date for their wedding. Such was the romantic news revealed last night when Mrs. Woods and the bride-elect entertained in their home. They were assisted by their daughter and sister, Miss Betty Woods.

Guests learned of the approaching June wedding early in the evening, when dessert in keeping with a red and white theme was served at small tables. Clustered around white taper centerpieces were individual corsage bouquets of red rosebuds and white sweet peas, to which were attached small cards linking the names of the engaged couple with the date June 21.

Mr. Crumrine had selected the corsage clusters, as well as the lovely bouquets of red and white gladioli arranged throughout the rooms. His gift for his fiancée was a gardenia corsage bouquet which was especially attractive with her blue crepe frock. Her mother, Mrs. Woods was in black; Miss Betty Woods, in black with pink trimming.

Games were played for the remainder of the evening. Prizes rewarded Miss Mary Porter and Mrs. Wayne Bartholomew for their high and low scores in monopoly; Mrs. Richard Robbins and Mrs. Leo Bachman, high and low in court whist.

In the group with Mrs. Woods and her daughters, the Misses Marjorie and Betty Woods, were Mr. Crumrine's mother and sister, Mrs. C. E. Crumrine and Miss Harriet Crumrine, San Juan Capistrano; Mesdames Ella Eoskin, Jack Davidson, Dolph Kelley and Miss Gaillard Hardwick, Los Angeles; Mrs. Leo Bachman, Newport Beach; Mesdames Katherine Herr, Richard Robbins, Seldon Martin, Glenn Eustis, Wayne Bartholomew, Kermit Maynard and the Misses Virginia Vaughn, Mary Porter, Mary Nalle, Irene Ross, Evelyn Fairley, Mildred Tummund.

Garden Motif Stressed With Flower Prizes To Club Members

Mrs. Allenne grouped her guests at the dining table for serving dessert course, and used feather plumes of pink and blue larkspur with pink tapers as table decorations. The flower motif received further recognition, not only in the bowls of sweet peas amidst which card tables were placed in the living room, but in prizes.

For Mrs. Don Moyle, with high score, was presented a fine rosebush, while a collection of thrifty young zinnia plants rewarded Mrs. Ray Wolfe for second high scoring.

Mrs. Allenne's group is composed of Mesdames Delbert Liggett, Don Moyle, Jesse Elliott, Ray Wolfe, Ned Hayes, Frank Latham and Olin Turner, all of whom were present.

Impetus to the recently launched membership drive for Laguna Beach Art association, was provided yesterday afternoon when Mrs. George Briggs and her daughter, Mrs. Howard Timmons, were hostesses at a bridge tea in the Timmons home on Red Hill avenue.

This pleasant affair was quite in keeping with the manner in which the drive parties were introduced Tuesday, when Mrs. James Irvine entertained prominent women from all over the county in her delightful home on the San Joaquin ranch. The same springtime charm prevailed yesterday, and guests enjoyed the vista provided by the groves in his famous citrus district.

Contract was played during the afternoon and scores registered by Mrs. A. W. Rutan and Mrs. Irwin A. Landis merited the prizes selected by the mother and daughter hostesses.

At the tea hour, Mrs. James Irvine took her place at the silver urn placed on a charmingly appointed table, whose flower decorations ranged through all tones of yellow from pale ivory to deep golden orange.

Similar parties are scheduled for the next few weeks in all parts of Orange county, as women interested in preserving for the Southland, so great an asset as the Art association and the remarkable gallery in "Our Village" put into execution their plans for developing a large sustaining membership in the association.

Romantic Theme Lends Charm to Pre-bridal Entertaining

To Miss Lillian McClellan, niece of Mr. and Mrs. George Bissett, 210 North Garnsey street, who on June 7 is to be wedded to Alfred Smith Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith, 111 Garfield street, was accorded a delightful pre-bridal courtesy Thursday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Struthers entertained in her honor at a tea and gift shower in her home, 902 South Flower street.

Miss McClellan was entirely unacquainted with party plans, when her aunt, Mrs. Bissett, left early in the afternoon to join Mrs. Struthers, presumably on a "car ride." Later she returned to her home and suggested that her niece accompany them. The "car ride" was awaiting her—but it was a flower-garlanded wheelbarrow, amidst whose gaily fluttering ribbons and posies she was spun rapidly down Flower street!

Arriving at the Struthers home, she discovered a whole group of friends ready to welcome her, and special entertainment provided by two graceful young dancers, Betty Struthers and Darlene Wasso, and the appropriate solo, "Love in Bloom," sung by Miss Ruth Beeman.

This was sung after Miss McClellan was escorted to a place of honor beneath a gaily decorated umbrella, and at the song's close, ribbons were pulled and a shower of rose petals fell on her from the umbrella's rainbow folds. This was like a signal for another charming happening, for at the same moment a florist's messenger arrived with a great sheaf of American beauty roses. Mr. Smith's gift to his fiancee.

A demure small Cupid, (enacted by Joan Walworth) drew in the wagon in which prettily wrapped gifts were placed, and the bride-to-be shared the pleasure of examining an array of pottery, china and linen shower gifts with the guests. This interval was succeeded by tea hour, when Mrs. Struthers served a delectable strawberry shortcake with tea. Trays were brightened with cunning "shower umbrellas" which adorned nut cups. Sweet peas in every rainbow color provided the home's charming decorations.

In this group complimenting the bride-elect, were her aunt, Mrs. Bissett, Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. Alfred Smith, and his sister and sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Brady and Mrs. Wesley Smith; Mesdames Charles E. Dixon, Frank Walworth, D. Barker, J. B. Stevenson, Ray King, J. W. Pledger, the Misses Joan Walworth, Barbara Warren, Mabel Dixon, Ruth Beemer, Darel King, Betty Warren, Betty Struthers and Darlene Wasso, and the hostess, Mrs. Struthers.

The closing meeting of the year will be a beach party Friday, June 19 in the Balboa island home of Mrs. John Harvey.

SING SUNDAY AT ABBEY

Below is the choir of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church of Orange who will present the sacred cantata "The Gospel of Easter" on the Musical Memory Hour program at Melrose Abbey Sunday afternoon. The choir is under the direction of Eugene E. Wunderlich.

CANTATA TO BE PRESENTED ON MEMORY HOUR

The Musical Memory Hour program to be given at Melrose Abbey Sunday afternoon, will be under the direction of Eugene E. Wunderlich, who will present the choir of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church of Orange in their own Sacred Cantata, "The Gospel of Easter" by J. S. Fauré.

Much favorable comment was accorded this choir for their remarkable presentation of this well known sacred cantata in their own church Easter Sunday to a large and appreciative audience.

Soloists who will assist the choir of forty voices are: Clara Fritsch, soprano; Al Vogel, baritone and Lorenz G. Trost, tenor. The Rev. K. L. Ahl, assistant pastor, will give the Scripture reading.

The cantata affords ample opportunity for considerable solo work in addition to the principle numbers which are to be rendered by the entire chorus, with several selections featuring both men's and women's choruses.

The St. John's choir is well known numbering in its membership many excellent voices assuring an hour of delightful sacred music. The program will begin promptly at 3:00 o'clock and is open to the general public.

Text: "Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God." Matth. 5, 9.

Armies, navies, air forces, martial music, tom-toms of natives and their phalanxes of rising spears — much as these might impress any individual or people, they nevertheless point to the depravity and corruption of the human race. They imply desolation and murder. Savages as well as nations of highest enlightenment and culture are constantly seeking an ever greater perfection in them, while the very thought that there must even be standing armies and navies ought to cause men everywhere to cry out: "God, be merciful to us murderous wretches!" Such cry, if it be heartfelt and upright, is answered by the heaven-born assurance of our text: "Blessed are the Peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God." Here is the Spirit from Heaven, the Spirit which the world is so sorely in need of.

Important Factors About Peace and Peacemaking

Peacemakers are not the warriors and statesmen who, after bloody warfare, desolation, and the exhaustion of resources, make what is called "peace". There is such a thing, too, as "making false peace". Peace cannot be secured at the expense of principle and truth.

Even so-called times of peace are marked with enmity and strife among men in the business world, in families, before the courts, etc. We have peace officers, armed, not against wild beasts, but against men, to keep them from breaking the peace. This sad condition can be properly understood only when we probe down deeply and find at the bottom of all enmity and strife the fact that MAN HAS BROKEN THE PEACE WITH HIS CREATOR AND GOD. In Paradise all was peace and happiness. Then came the accused peacebreaker, the devil, and ever since then there has been enmity, war, and murder on earth. Civilization, science, culture, emphasized and fostered these many centuries, have not brought peace (the most civilized people and nations have simply been the best fighters). Yet there are those who still look to these things to bring peace. They still expect peace to come out of the human heart, which in its very nature is full of selfishness, envy, vengeance, and murder. Truth is, peace can come from God alone. If man wishes peace, he must first of all have peace with God.

God, the Source and Influence of Peace and Peacemaking

When, in consequence of the devil's lies, man had broken the peace with his Creator, and was entirely unable to make peace again, God Himself found a way. That very One whose love manifested in creation had been spurned, determined to show man, the ungrateful and foolish creature, still greater love. "God so loved the world," the world of peacebreakers, sinners, "that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." In the fullness of time the promised Shiloh, the Prince of Peace, came into the world. He was made under the Law to fulfill all righteousness. He suffered and died to atone for sin and to expiate man's guilt. There is now a great Peacemaker, who calls to man: "Be ye reconciled to God."

Who Are the True Peacemakers?

Through the regenerating power of the Word of Reconciliation there comes peace to all who accept the atonement of the Son of God. Through the proclamation of God's

OUT OUR WAY

The Times eyed their treasure. "Ah, for that plan I'm very grand, but I don't know what we can do with all this wondrous gold."

"It's very pleasing to the eye, but there is naught we want to buy. Perhaps right back into the hill the large chest should be rolled."

"Oh, I know what we ought to do," another said. "We'll give it to our friend, the old prospector. He can use it, I am sure."

"Of course, he has a lot, right now, but he will spend it all, somehow. When his first batch is gone, he'll still have this, and not be poor."

"You never should do things in haste, 'cause thus good plans oft go to waste. A big surprise still is in store. Now, follow my advice. 'Somebody take a nugget out and find out what it's all about. You'll shortly find that it is smart to look things over twice.'

Fair Goldy did as she was told. The moment that she grabbed a hold of one of the small pieces, she exclaimed, "Oh, what a thrill. I hope these nuggets will not spoil. They're candy, wrapped in bright gold foil. This is our chance to eat and eat until we get our fill."

"You bet it is," the old man said. "This is my treat, so go ahead." Then a funny little bear and a small black bear came near.

"Oh, aren't they cute! They, too, want some," said Copy. "They are not so dumb. Come on, we'll share our treat. There's lots for everybody here."

Richard Nash, English dandy and wit, was the most distinguished master of ceremonies the world has ever known. He presided over the assembly and gaming rooms at Bath, famous watering place of the early 18th century, and his word was law in the matter of deportment there.

President Cleveland entered a difficult and trying period. Labor was organized for the first time, trusts began to be formed, and as a result of the industrial clashes, he failed of re-election.

In 1892, however, Cleveland regained the presidency, and again stumbled into a series of labor disturbances. He was so severely opposed by big business that the second four years were enough for him. He retired to his home at Princeton, N. J., where he became first dean of the Graduate College of Princeton University, and died in 1908, at the age of 71.

On March 20, 1923, the United States issued a 12-cent stamp picturing President Cleveland. It is still current.

BROKE LONG REPUBLICAN SPELL

GROVER CLEVELAND

FROM 1861 to 1865, Republican administrations ruled the United States. Then, as Civil War rivalries were dispelled and the tariff became an important issue, the Democrats again asserted their power. In 1884, finally, Stephen Grover Cleveland, liberal and aggressive governor of New York, defeated James G. Blaine for the presidency.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UPI)—Prices moved narrowly in the short session of the New York Stock exchange today as dealers fell back to the recent high volume.

Opening steady, the market turned down for a time under the lead of non-ferrous metal shares before recovering, closing up 2 points in American Smelting. The list steadied late in the first hour and slowly rallied from the lows.

S. Steel recouped an early loss of 4 cents and other steel shares met support that left them slightly irregular on the day. Railroad issues also were mixed in a narrow range.

In the copper group, Columbian Gas which continued to respond to its favorable earnings statement for the first quarter. Oil was steady to firm. Motor vehicles on price declines, and then came back from the lows. Mail order issues and farm equipment were firm.

In the copper group, Anaconda touched 23¢ of 1¢ points from the previous close. The company reported net income for the first quarter equal to 22 cents a share. The stock was 3 cents a share above the net for the first quarter, 1935, but not up to expectations of some traders who sold the stock on issuance of the report. Toward the close the issue recovered part of the loss. Other copper issues moderated.

ear to the ground as to what the voting majority wants, rather than seeking the real truth that would develop the country as a whole.

The principle of centralizing education and spending $20,000 in Santa Ana, making this a laboratory, is certainly another example of the conceit and vanity of the educators in charge of things in Washington. Remember that some private citizens will have to do without $20,000 worth of food, shelter and comforts to pay for this $20,000 of "boondoggling."

TAXES: WHO PAYS THEM?

Why have taxes increased three hundred percent in thirty years? Have we by swelling our governmental activities benefited ourselves? No, quite the contrary. Life and property are not so secure now as then, and our grandchildren are coming out of school somewhat less well educated than were our children.

Why, then, do we permit and even insist on adding to our enormous tax burden? The famous and astute Mr. Barnum summed it up in his oft quoted phrase, "The American people like to be humbugged." We not only like it, we revel in it. If we can get no one else to do it for us we will humbug ourselves.

Who pays the taxes? The answer is: you, and you, and you—everyone of you pays the taxes. You do not believe this of course, but this only proves the correctness of Mr. Barnum's observation. You like to believe you can and are putting them on someone else. Because your name is not on the tax rolls you jump to the conclusion that the corporations are paying the taxes.

Let us say that Santa Ana has to raise a million dollars in taxes, and specious demagogues in politics, the pulpit, and the press, persuade the public that it can be raised by putting the taxes all on the electric, the gas, and the water systems and freeing the "Forgotten Man" from any tax burden. What would happen? One of two things; either these utilities would raise the rate sufficiently to cover the tax or they would cease to exist. Now Simon, in either event who would pay the taxes?

Why are taxes rising? Because the man on the street does not know that he is paying and must continue to pay them. Not a few of our "unemployed" millions are unemployed for no other reason than that government is wasting the tax money that should have remained in private hands to give employment to gainful, useful labor. These helpless, hapless unemployed are paying taxes in agony and despair.

Everyone that produces, be he farmer, millionaire, or day laborer pays taxes. The poorest pay comparatively the highest taxes, either by having to pay more for what they buy or by receiving less wages, or both. The only ones who escape taxes are paupers and prisoners. This is inescapable and is just as true whether taxes are raised by a levy on incomes or on property. Demagogues will continue to tickle your envious ears by denunciations of wealth and show you how you can evade taxes but the more you listen to them the more taxes you will pay and the farther deferred "the more abundant life."

I will give here only one illustration of how the poor pay the income tax they fondly think they are piling on the rich. Many years ago when Henry Ford was employing one thousand workmen let us suppose some cheerful "uplifter" who delighted to bind burdens on other men's backs, should have been able to persuade the rabble to decree that all of Henry's annual income above ten thousand dollars should be taken from him as taxes. Would or could the Ford Motor Company presently have been employing forty thousand men at double wages? Certainly not. And would not these thirty-nine thousand of this same mob who levied the tax, now unemployed, be paying taxes through the nose?

We are, then, on the road to destruction because we think we can load burdens on other men's shoulders without ourselves sharing the burden.

IS IT EXTRAVAGANCE?

We have a local example of the Federal Government's idea that education should be directed from a central source, in the appointment of Homer Chaney at $5400 a year salary as executive manager of the forum.

Let it be understood that we have nothing personal against Homer Chaney. We do not, however, see how his banking or other experience has qualified him particularly to direct economic and educational thought. If there is any part of our government that has got the people in trouble, it has been the way banks have been handled. But, if the government is going to hand out $5400, we think he will do as little harm with it probably as anyone we know.

How a man can put in his time and earn $5400 conducting a public forum is more than we can understand. It is just another illustration that has become so general, that a public office has become a private snap.

For the Federal Government to undertake to educate people on economic lines, is a most dangerous and expensive precedent. It invariably begets extravagance and waste and can even lead to the worst kind of propaganda.

By what course of reasoning do the elective officers of the United States believe that they are more efficient in judging how people should be educated than the constructive leaders of thought and production are able to educate the trade?

These starry-eyed office holders seem to assume that they have infinite wisdom in selecting men to educate private citizens; that those who contribute to private colleges, like Stanford, California Institute of Technology, Whittier College and all the other private colleges, are not wise enough to properly present to the public economic and ethical problems. The Government has, by their method of extorting tax from the big producers, paralyzed private colleges, checked their growth and turned the confiscated wealth over to state colleges controlled by "boondoggling" politicians with their ear to the ground as to what the voting majority wants, rather than seeking the real truth that would develop the country as a whole.

Remember that some private citizens will have to do without $20,000 worth of food, shelter and comforts to pay for this $20,000 of "boondoggling."

When the people wake up that they can do things better for themselves than they can have it done by the lazy, inefficient Federal Government officials, we will regain some of the wisdom of the framers of the Constitution who had learned the lesson of a centralized government from bitter experience.

HOOVER'S PHILADELPHIA SPEECH

After reading Hoover's Philadelphia speech, it is evident that he does not yet know why ten or twelve million people are out of work. It seems to us he makes a lot of statements that are contradictory.

He makes the statement, "It would be far better that the party go down to defeat with the banner of principle flying, than it would by pussyfooting." Of course, he means by that, the principle of individual liberty. Yet, in his speech, he contradicts himself by some of the things he advocates. Hoover does not yet seem to believe that it was wise and expedient to change the gold content of the dollar. He does not seem to understand that people do not borrow or lend money, but that they borrow or lend things and services; that when the government changes the unit used in measuring things, it has done an injustice to either the debtor or creditor; that it is the duty of the government to try to correct this radical change in the unit of measurement and then establish a unit of measure that does not fluctuate with the will of the politicians and the people.

The people, through their representatives, in 1913 established the Federal Reserve Act and the Income Tax Law which made it possible to pyramid government credit and, thus, rapidly change the measuring qualities of money, reducing its value and then was not able to maintain this unit of measure and, in this manner did great injustice to a great majority of honest, hard-working people, who had believed that money had uniform purchasing power.

Inasmuch as the government is used as the instrument of collecting debts, it certainly has something to say as to the amount that should be collected. The government, of course, should not have a money system that can be so easily changed by human beings. When the government makes a mistake, it is best to recognize that mistake and correct it and then desist from making the same mistake again. This is what the government is NOT now doing.

If the Republican platform is to be written by leaders of the Republican Party, like Hoover, it will not, according to our ideas, be a very farsighted policy. It evidently will be tinged with special privileges for some and with unsound banking laws, as it has been in the past. The speech, it seems to us, was not up to his former speeches.

OVER-SAVING!

Many people are of the opinion that certain classes of people have over-saved which has reduced purchasing power and caused the depression; that over-saving can be the cause of unemployment.

We think the people who believe this are confused in their distinction between saving and investment, or probably speculation. (Most all of our so-called investing is really speculation.) One cannot over-save and do harm to Society. One can do harm to Society by investing in the wrong thing and thereby reduce the productive capacity of the country. Investing in the wrong thing is just as harmful to Society as overspending, over-consuming; but, over-saving never has in all history caused unemployment.

There have, of course, been times when there was unemployment when people were saving but there was another cause for the unemployment. It was not caused by saving. It was simply a coincidence.

An example of bad investing being harmful to Society, we might say that any individual who does not consume enough to develop physically and mentally to the most productive degree, when he has the where-with-all to consume enough to develop physically and mentally, is not over-saving but he is investing in the wrong thing. The greatest investment in the world is in human beings—developing intellect, body and character. To stint on the development of these is not over-saving, but bad investing.

As one writer has aptly said, the best investment in the world is the tools of your own trade.

For any individual to do without things which develop mind and body and put it into material investments, is a serious mistake in investment. He is not over-saving but erring in judgment as to how his savings should be used.

This belief that we can over-save, must be corrected before we can start on any sound social relations or fundamental economic principles. We can only improve our economic lot—that is raise the real wages of the workers—by having more efficient capital.

As John Stuart Mill said, "Nothing can permanently alter general wages except an increase or diminution of capital itself, compared with the quantity of labor offering itself to be hired. . . . And every scheme for their benefit, which does not proceed on this as its foundation, is, for all permanent purposes, a delusion."

Again, we say, we cannot over-save!

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1935)

WASHINGTON, May 16.—There can be little doubt that events are shaping themselves now to force

Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan to the front as the man who will be pitted against Governor Landon of Kansas in the showdown at the Republican national convention.

Senator Borah's unhappy experience in the Ohio primary may appear to eliminate him from the race so far as winning the nomination is concerned, but the Republican strength represented by the Idaho senator is by no means eliminated.

Couple this with the fact that the "uninstructed" or anti-Borah delegations in several states, where there are "favorite son" candidates, are very strongly inclined to support Governor Landon and you have a situation in which Senator Borah's following may present Senator Vandenberg as a compromise.

Talk of a bolt by Senator Borah in the event that he himself does not win the nomination is heard, but it is not to be credited.

Mr. Borah has never bolted the regular Republican nominee, but he is interested in seeing an aggressive campaign made on principles he considers basic. His attitude toward Governor Landon has not been publicly defined, though there have been intimations that he would be found in opposition.

What man would Senator Borah accept and work enthusiastically for? It might be one of his senatorial colleagues, like Senator Vandenberg or perhaps Senator Stewar.

Certainly the Vandenberg movement would not in the final showdown find Mr. Borah friendly, but rather friendly.

Then there's the Hoover faction in the party, which knows that there is no chance to nominate the former president, but nevertheless wants to see someone nominated who has not been unfriendly to the Hoover cause.

The Callifornia primary experience has left a residue of bad feeling among the Hoover men, many of whom felt that Governor Landon did not stand up in a test of major importance when the Hearst influence was being fought by the regular Republican organization in California.

The Hoovers are not in any way espousing the Vandenberg cause, but they, too, would accept the Michigan senator. With the backing, therefore, of Senator Borah, on the one hand, and the Hoover group, on the other, the chances of Senator Vandenberg developing into a formidable candidate at the convention appear at the moment to be bright indeed.

It should not be forgotten that while Colonel Knox of Chicago is not considered a likely nominee, he will have a substantial number of delegates. Here, too, there is a possibility of support for Senator Vandenberg. This is because Col. Knox hailed originally from

Mr. Glasses Magee the well known collector and saver has started a collection of all different kinds of weapons used by all different kinds of people all over the world, consisting so far of a boomerang, a bow and arrow, a sling-shot, a boy scout hatchet and the sawed off end of a broomstick.

The close friends of Senator Vandenberg are not sure they want him pushed forward at this or any other time. Their argument is that he might well bide his time for 1940. This reasoning assumes that, if Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected, there will be distinct reversal of sentiment against the New Deal four years hence. On the other hand, if Mr. Landon is nominated and elected, he would naturally be the candidate of his party four years from now. To talk "1940" is to concede the Roosevelt re-election.

The Michigan Senator stands very well with his colleagues in both houses of congress and many of them will be prominent in the state delegations in the convention. At the moment it does look as if the Borah strength may be inherited by Vandenberg and that the Michigan senator will be the candidate on whom the opposition to Governor Landon may possibly unite, whether Mr. Vandenberg wills it so or not.

Estimates a few weeks ago that Mr. Landon has the lead still holds good, but Senator Vandenberg is coming along much more strongly as Mr. Borah's chances seem to diminish.

One time Sam Cross got mad at his mother because she wouldn't leave him go to the movies, so he waked to the hospitable and went in and breathed all the germs he had time to before he was chased out again, feeling pretty nervous for about a week afterwards, but nothing happened.

But what could they have meant? Of course we didn't mean to eavesdrop. But you know how it is at the theater. Sometimes you can't help overhearing someone directly back of you. But I could wish I had not happened to overhear this. It seems a little too mystifying for a quiet-loving mind. I've searched through books at the Little Gray House but can't find anything that seems to bear on it. Of course I did like Mark Twain—leaded through at random, "hoping I might tree it among the pictures." But it still remains a puzzle. This is what we overhear. And I think I am quoting verbatim.

It's still the best out-of-doors freedom is here and gladness and rest. Because it is May!

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE

Perhaps we were needlessly alarmed but it sounded so very mysterious and they were three such earnest young men. One of them had more whiskers than our Pancho Cat. And you all know what those Russian anarchists look like in pictures. But maybe he wasn't Bolshevik or communistic or anything like that. There is even the possibility that the Junior College Fiesta may have had something to do with his hirsute appearance.
